Cleanzone 2024 is very high in demand amongst the cleanroom industry

Frankfurt am Main, 20 02 2024. The international trade fair Cleanzone is taking up speed; anticipation for the special event for the cleanroom industry is growing. Numerous companies have already announced their participation in the event taking place on 25 and 26 September 2024 in Frankfurt am Main.

An ever-increasing number of industries are using cleanroom technology. The market is growing steadily and with it the importance of Cleanzone trade fair and conference. Even today, around seven months before the start of the show, numerous well-known companies have already registered. "Around 30 per cent more space than in the same period last year has already been booked," says a delighted Anja Diete, Show Director of Cleanzone. "The number of registrations is up as well. We will see a number of new faces and many exhibitors who keep returning since the first edition in 2012. That makes us very happy."

The positive response shows that there is a strong demand for an interdisciplinary and international dialogue platform. The special event is aimed at the entire spectrum of all industries producing and working in cleanrooms and offers a comprehensive overview of the market.

New faces and well-known contacts

Many national and international top players from the cleanroom industry are taking part this year, around 30 per cent of whom are new exhibitors.

Newcomers such as Octanorm Bauelemente, Icotek, AM Instruments and Getinge will be presenting their cleanroom expertise, as will long-standing participants including Daldrop + Dr. Ing. Huber, Kemmlit Bauelemente, Cleanroom.de, Ortner Reinraumtechnik, Dastex Reinraumzubehör, CWS Cleanrooms, Bardusch GmbH and Decontam.

The complete exhibitor search will be available on the website from the end of June 2024.

An essential event for all participants

Statements of this year's exhibitors reflect the importance of cross-technology dialogue and networking. "We have been exhibiting regularly at Cleanzone from the very beginning," says Christian Hage, Managing Director of cleanroom manufacturer Daldrop + Dr. Ing. "The fact that the entire cleanroom industry is represented at the trade fair is the most important factor for us."

Jörg Mesenich, Sales Director at CWS Cleanrooms, is already looking forward to the trade fair in September: "Cleanzone is important for us because it offers an international audience and professional dialogue at the highest level. As the entire value chain can be experienced there, it creates the perfect setting for us as a full-service provider."

Cleanzone is also a good platform for packaging expert KWP GmbH. "At a time when the demands for cleanroom technologies and hygienic production processes are constantly increasing, we see Cleanzone as an ideal opportunity to present our innovations, products and services and enter into a constructive dialogue with experts," remarks Alena Meza, Junior Account Manager at KWP.

Cleanzone Conference as a knowledge transfer platform

Trade fair visitors can look forward to an ambitious event programme. The Cleanzone Conference will once again inspire with top-class lectures. The Cleanzone Award supports companies in their endeavours to launch innovative products on the market. The award is being presented at Cleanzone since 2012.

Opportunity for high-quality leads

In 2022, a total of 1,500 participants from 38 countries visited the trade fair. In addition to Germany, the most important visitor countries included the Netherlands, Turkey, Switzerland, Ireland, France, the UK, Italy, Austria, the Czech Republic and Sweden. The degree of internationality reached around 30 per cent. Most of the visitors came from the pharmaceutical industry, microelectronics and biotechnology. 54 per cent were high-ranking corporate decision-makers, 46 per cent had the intention to make specific investments. A similar visitor structure is expected for 2024, offering the opportunity to generate high-quality leads.
